TO THE CASUAL READER

The old adage about opportunity knocking once "on every man's door" is out of date today. The trouble is not with a lack of opportunity, but with the lack of men to recognize opportunity

The rewards of successful enterprise appeal to all, but there are only a few, a very few, who are willing to earn the reward.

A few months ago ten men of national reputation, who have been directing the affairs of large corporations for the past twenty years, became associated in a business way to direct the affairs of a new Institution.

Representing these men in an educational way is a unique and original corporation, having at present 50 offices in the Eastern part of the United States, employing over 1000 representatives. The majority of these men were formerly ministers, physicians, surgeons, attorneys, college professors, executives, etc., many of them having given up positions and vocations of high earning power of many years' standing in order to take up our work. standing in order to take up our work.

To such men the ethical side of our business has a tremendous appeal.

If you, Mr. Casual Reader, happen to be a man of education, personality and refinement who would appreciate an opportunity to associate yourself with such men, or if you would like the opportunity of materially increasing your present income in a legitimate and dignified way, would suggest that you write briefly, stating phone number, and interview will be arranged.

To those who qualify will be given the opportunity of meeting our executives at a special meeting to be held in Boston this coming week.
